Thirty-five paintings

2019–2026 · ISTANBUL, MILAN AND LUXEMBOURG

Thirty-five works made since 2019 across Istanbul, Milan and Luxembourg: acrylic on canvas, on carton and on paper, and one drawing in charcoal on the reverse of a canvas. They are given here newest first, and a small figure with crossed eyes runs through them from one end of the seven years to the other.

Paintings since 2019

The figures in these paintings are assembled rather than drawn whole. A body accumulates out of clusters of rounded cells and bubbles that lean against one another, and it may close or stay open: which way it goes belongs to where that figure stands in the scene and to what it is thinking there. Bodies and faces are the medium the work is made in, and the question they carry is an existential one. What lies behind them is not a backdrop but a place, and those places work as dimensions.

The decisions are taken in wet paint, on the spot. Layer goes over layer like a palimpsest, and they are not layers of light and shadow: they are colour clusters of movement, energy, aura and feeling. Large areas of ground are left bare, and they carry as much weight as the painted part.

Familiar compositional formats are kept while the agreement that made them legible is withdrawn: an object is held out, a sign is displayed, and what either stands for is never supplied. Titles act as a second body in the scene, bending the image instead of describing it. Power appears as a distribution of weight, one figure left underneath the stack. At the edges a small onlooker sits with an X drawn over each eye, and in one painting its mouth is stitched shut as well, so the witness is cancelled before anything can be reported. Scale works as a verdict, one face given as a person and the rest reduced to signs, sometimes a face replaced by a number.

Yiğit Özen

BORN 1994, ISTANBUL

Yiğit Özen was born in 1994 in Istanbul and trained as an architect.

Özen has painted since 2018. The thirty-five works in this book were made between 2019 and 2026, across Istanbul, Milan and Luxembourg.

From 2020 the studio work went largely to XR and spatial design, and the canvases thin out to one commission in 2023 before the painting resumes in 2026. The years are given as they fall rather than smoothed over.

Alongside the paintings, Özen works as an XR and spatial web designer, and is the founder of decentralize design in Milan and Virtually Ever After in Luxembourg.

THE PAINTING AND THE DESIGN PRACTICE ARE KEPT APART, AND THE RULES BETWEEN THEM SAY
WHERE ONE ENDS

The thirty-five paintings are given newest first, so the seven years are read backwards. A paragraph that says a thing happens for the first time means the first time reading backwards through the book.

Every work opens on a spread: the number, the title, the dimensions and the note on the left, the painting whole on the right. The top of every painting sits on the same line throughout the book, and its size on the page follows the size of the canvas, so the largest canvas prints largest. The first work of each year carries the year as a numeral; nothing else marks the thresholds.

Where a work was photographed in detail or in progress, one or two spreads follow. Details are chosen, not collected: one cut is set large against one or two others, each printed once in the whole book, each captioned with where it is and what the hand did there. The stages of a painting are given in order with the decisive stage large, and the caption says how many stages there were.

Six recurring figures are followed in a chapter at the end, in cuts that appear nowhere else. Dimensions are width by height, in centimetres, then in inches.

7 fam board game

ACRYLIC ON CANVAS · 100 × 80 CM · 39 ¾ × 31 ½ IN · 2026 · LUXEMBOURG

One side stands wrapped, each cone clear of the next; the other is stacked two and three high until one head cannot be told from another. Those are the two ways of being a family available on this board, and the game is between them. Nothing has been taken off, so whatever is being played is not the kind of game that ends with a winner. The larger of the two heads has neither eyes nor a mouth; the small one opposite it is all glare.

COLOUR — WARM AND COOL LEVEL AT ABOUT A THIRD EACH, CYAN THE LARGEST FAMILY, GREEN UNDER TWO IN A THOUSAND
COMPOSITION — A BOARD TURNED CORNER ON, ITS NEAR POINT THE ONE CORNER SHOWN WHOLE, TWO HEADS AT OPPOSITE SCALES
HAND — LOBES TURNED WET INTO WET FOR THE HEADS, THE WRAPPINGS AND THE FACES DRAWN LAST WITH A THIN TIP

Virgil on Virtual Cage (final_final-finalV9)

ACRYLIC ON CANVAS · 80 x 100 CM · 31 ½ x 39 ⅝ IN · 2026 · LUXEMBOURG

The cage is drawn, not built. A few white lines lay a ceiling across the top and drop two uprights, then stop two fifths of the way down, so nothing is actually shut in. Underneath, the bodies are soft, pressed from the tube and scratched while still wet, and not one of them looks at the lines. The title carries a guide out of the underworld and a file name that has been saved as final nine times over: two promises of an ending, made by something that has none.

COLOUR — THREE QUARTERS WARM, COOL UNDER FOUR PER CENT, THE WHITE WIG THE LIGHTEST POINT

COMPOSITION — A WHITE LINED BOX THAT PROMISES TO ENCLOSE AND STOPS AT TWO FIFTHS OF THE HEIGHT

HAND — GRAINY PINK PRESSED FROM THE TUBE AND SCRATCHED WHILE WET, AGAINST FLAT OPAQUE LINE

walls of perception

ACRYLIC ON CANVAS · 50 × 70 CM · 19 5/8 × 27 1/2 IN · 2026 · LUXEMBOURG

What comes out of the mouth is given weight. A column of grains, piled thick enough to cast its own shadow, falls from under the brim into a bowl and is set on the table like something to be eaten. The wall the title names is not behind the figure, it is worn: the brim takes the eyes out of the picture, so the one who is talking cannot be seen to be looking.

COLOUR — PETROL GREEN AGAINST BURGUNDY, BUTTER YELLOW AT THE CEILING OF SATURATION

COMPOSITION — A GRANULAR COLUMN FROM MOUTH TO BOWL AS THE SPINE OF THE VERTICAL FORMAT

HAND — YELLOW PILED INTO RIDGES THAT CAST THEIR OWN SHADOW, THIN FLAT GREEN COMBED BEHIND

THE FIRST STAGE, IN PENCIL

The face is made three times: left blank in the blocking, given a moustache, then ringed in red. The teeth under the brim arrive last of all.

articulo attack on mandarin

ACRYLIC ON CANVAS · 80 × 80 CM · 31 ½ × 31 ½ IN · 2026 · LUXEMBOURG

The flock is already committed, every wing swept the same way down the diagonal, and the row of figures standing along the boat does not look up. Each of them has an X where the eyes should be, so there is nobody aboard to see it coming. The anchor lies in the corner with its chain beside it. One thin figure at the centre holds the pole, which is the only act in the painting, and it cannot be told whether it is steering or holding on.

COLOUR — BLUE, GREY, WHITE AND BLACK ONLY, CONTRAST CARRIED BY VALUE AND NOT BY HUE

HAND — A LOADED BRUSH FLUNG SIDEWAYS, BRISTLES SPLITTING, NO WING ENTERED TWICE

The attack comes down the diagonal; the rowers hold their line.

ACRYLIC ON CANVAS · 55 × 75 CM · 21 ¾ × 29 ½ IN · 2026 · LUXEMBOURG

Nothing here separates. The bird and the wall it stands against are made of the same milk, more than one colour on the brush at once, and no contour is ever drawn around the body. The single hard place on the surface is the row of red notches ranged inside the open mouth. Two right angles at the right, a framed panel and a head shut in a box, are all the order there is, and the title slides between what is fed and what would stop it.

COLOUR — LESS THAN ONE PER CENT BELOW MID VALUE, MUSTARD GOLD RATHER THAN THE PASTELS AT THE CEILING

COMPOSITION — FILLED END TO END, FIGURE AND GROUND NEVER SEPARATED, TWO RIGHT ANGLED UNITS HOLDING THE ORDER

HAND — MORE THAN ONE COLOUR ON THE BRUSH AT ONCE, EVERY STROKE KEEPING ITS OWN RIDGE

penguin is not a friend, only a sinner

ACRYLIC ON CANVAS · 120 × 120 CM · 47 ¼ × 47 ¼ IN · 2023 · ISTANBUL (PRIVATE COMMISSION)

Up at the narrowest part of the body two dark slits have gathered; the face is there, like a small knot fastened to the top of a mass far greater than itself. The great arcs descending below read as an embrace, and also as two taut wings guarding the chest; this double reading sets up the painting's central tension.

COLOUR — THREE OR FOUR REGISTERS THROUGHOUT, ALL THE SATURATED YELLOW HELD TO THE AXIS OF THE FIGURE

COMPOSITION — THE CENTRE OF THE SQUARE EMPTIED, THE MASS PILED INTO THE LEFT THIRD

HAND — FAN SHAPED COMBINGS FROM ONE FAST PULL, THE RIGHT THIRD OPENED WITH WATER INTO A STAIN

From 2020 the studio work went largely to XR and spatial design, and the canvases thin out to this one commission before the painting resumes in 2026.

The pointed teeth ranged in the open mouth of the figure on the left stand as the one sharp edge within the softness of the rest of the painting. The title gives this mouth a sentence: hello boss, I am the shark. An Italian and overly cheerful greeting, the opening line of someone introducing himself as a predator.

COLOUR — FIVE NAMES ONLY, AND BLUE OCCURS IN THE BODIES ALONE AND CARRIES THE WHOLE DIVISION

ACRYLIC ON CANVAS · 100 × 120 CM · 39 ¾ × 47 ¼ IN · 2020 · MILAN

Below lies a long, flat car, a thick black wheel at each end; it fills the whole breadth of the painting and a large body stands upon it. One foot sunk into the middle of the bodywork, the other braced on its edge, no balance, the stance liable to break at any moment.

COLOUR — MORE THAN HALF GREY AND WHITE, ALL COLOUR DRAWN ONTO THE FIGURE AND NONE OF IT DOMINANT

COMPOSITION — CREST, HEAD KNOT, CELLULAR BODY AND CAR STACKED ON ONE AXIS, EACH IN A DIFFERENT TEXTURE

HAND — LONG SLANTED PULLS FOR THE GROUND, ONE LOADED TURN FOR EVERY CELL

cute but unemployed cartoon figure

ACRYLIC ON CANVAS · 65 × 90 CM · 25 5/8 × 35 3/8 IN · 2020 · MILAN

The red ground is a single flat layer from end to end, leaving nothing to fill the space around the figure. In the middle a single-coloured field and a creature standing upon it. The unemployment of the title matches precisely this emptiness, a figure with no role in a scene with no set.

COLOUR — ONE RED OVER HALF THE SURFACE, EVERY COLOUR OF THE FIGURE SOILED AGAINST IT

HAND — ONE COAT OF RED STOPPING AROUND THE FIGURE, LOADED MASSES SET ONTO IT WHILE DRYING

the family dinner after a night in jail

ACRYLIC ON CANVAS · 65 x 90 CM · 25 5/8 x
35 3/8 IN · 2020 · MILAN

Green has wrapped everything, three heads float within this colour; all three issue from the same mass and mix back into it. The one on the left is the lightest and most luminous, almost phosphorescent, its eye sockets hollowed.

COLOUR — WARM UNDER FIVE IN TEN THOUSAND, THE WHOLE EVENT BETWEEN GREEN AND ITS BLUE NEIGHBOUR
COMPOSITION — THREE UPRIGHT MASSES DARKENING INTO NAVY POOLS, WITH NO HORIZONTAL LINE ANYWHERE
HAND — WET INTO WET THROUGHOUT, THE ONE HARD EDGE THE THICK WHITE DOME AT THE LEFT

caprocorn sister: war, plague, earthquake

ACRYLIC ON CANVAS · 65 × 90 CM · 25 ⅝ × 35 ⅝ IN · 2020 · MILAN

In the middle of the lower half stands a dark green chest, its edges combed in lines, its lid closed; while everything around it is crooked, it is the one geometric unit. Three bodies are ranged around it and the title lists three catastrophes side by side: war, plague, earthquake.

COLOUR — COOL AT EIGHT NINTHS AND BLUE NEAR TWO THIRDS, THE LIGHTEST VALUES UNPAINTED CANVAS

COMPOSITION — THREE BODIES AROUND A CUBE AT THREE HEIGHTS, THE CHEST THE ONE ANGULAR UNIT

HAND — THE NIGHT HATCHED DRY OVER BLACK, BODIES IN THIN HALF OPAQUE LAYERS THAT LET THE WEAVE BREATHE

ACRYLIC ON CANVAS · 80 × 100 CM · 31 ½ × 39 ⅜ IN · 2020 · MILAN

Right in the middle, between two dark bodies, a small infant is drawn with a thin red line: a body of rings come side by side, a pair of eyes, a single horizontal notch of a mouth. It stands like a diagram laid onto the flesh afterward, staying upon the paint without mixing into it.

COLOUR — FOUR FIFTHS NEUTRAL, AND THE ONLY COLOUR BELONGS TO THE SMALLEST FIGURE

COMPOSITION — THREE DARK BODIES WITH A RED BABY SCHEME AT THE EXACT CENTRE INSIDE A NET OF TAUT LINES

HAND — WATERED BLACK OPENED BY DRY BRUSH AND WIPING, RED DRAWN LAST WITH A THIN TIP ON DRY PAINT

When the Darkness surrounds, be among those who burn the Great Fire

ACRYLIC ON CANVAS · 65 × 90 CM · 25 5/8 × 35 3/8 IN · 2020 · MILAN

The hand at the end of the arm reaching to the right is left unable to become a fist, the fingers not quite closed; it could be about to strike, it could be reached out to hold something. The title says be one of those who light the great fire, but the palm is empty, nothing burning is visible in the painting.

COLOUR — WARM OVER TWO THIRDS AND ALL OF IT ON THE FIGURE, THE GROUND A SOILED KHAKI, BROWN AND OLIVE

COMPOSITION — ONE FIGURE FILLING THE FRAME, ITS OPEN HAND THE SINGLE GESTURE
HAND — UNMIXED COLOURS SOILED BY RUBBING ON THE GROUND, THICK WET PAINT FOR THE BODY, NO DRAWN CONTOUR

A dark band closes in from all four sides and leaves within it a light green rectangle between lemon and pistachio, setting up a second frame inside the painting. The figure is placed right in the middle of that bright field, standing in profile.

The right two-thirds has turned into nothing, not even a ground, a halted darkness; the figure is at least twice as small as this void, the single light mass squeezed against the left edge. The body is folded in two, the back making an arch above and ending where the head should be in a lumpy tip, no face set upon it.

COLOUR — TWO NAMES ONLY, YELLOW OCHRE AND A WARM BLACK, WITH ONE SATURATED RED BETWEEN THEM

COMPOSITION — THE BODY SQUEEZED LEFT, EIGHTY SIX PER CENT GIVEN TO DARKNESS, THE CENTRE OF GRAVITY OFF THE FRAME

HAND — OVERLAPPING DRY PASSES FOR THE DARK, CIRCULAR RUBBINGS FOR THE BODY, ONE FLAT COAT FOR THE RED

A painting featuring several blue, round, stitched figures, possibly representing dolls or characters, set against a vibrant red background. The figures have black 'X' marks for eyes and some have simple black lines for mouths. They are arranged in a cluster, with some appearing to be on a dark blue surface. The overall style is expressive and somewhat abstract, with visible brushstrokes and a textured appearance. The text 'What comes back.' is overlaid in white, bold, sans-serif font in the lower-left quadrant.

COGS, AND THEY BELIEVE IN THE WORK

A small figure turns up in eight of these paintings, built from stacked circles, an X drawn over each eye and in one of them a mouth stitched shut. It is never the subject. It stands at the foot of the heap, in a row along a boat, hung upside down in a corner, ranged across a board.

They are the functionaries. Emptied of anything of their own, put there to serve a purpose, and, as far as anything in the painting shows, convinced they are doing some good. The X is not violence done to them; it is the condition of the job. Present at the scene, and unable to report it.

AN EMPTY SEAT WHERE THE AUTHORITY SHOULD BE

A chair is drawn into painting after painting and nobody is sitting in it. It floats on a panel high up, it is outlined in white against a wall, it stands at the edge of the scene turned slightly away. Where a figure does sit, the seat is a stool at the edge of the sheet rather than a place at the head of anything.

It is the empty observer: the authority the scene is arranged for, who is not at the head of the work. The paintings keep the furniture of judgement and withhold the judge. A bird stands on one of these chairs in the mark used for the studio, which is as close as the seat ever comes to being occupied.

The crow

THE MESSENGER, AND WHAT IT IS CARRYING

Birds are the one thing in these paintings that moves under its own power. A bird-headed body bends over the bed; a flock is flung down the diagonal at a boat; white heads rise off the top edge; a dark head with a beak sits low at the right of a table.

The crow arrives as the messenger, which in every tradition means power borrowed from somewhere else and not answerable here. What it carries is never opened. It is also where good and evil stop being separable: the same wing that is sent is the wing that is used, and the painting keeps both readings on the surface at once.

The cage

PERCEPTION, AND WHERE IT STOPS

A structure is drawn over the scene rather than built in it: a white box laid across the top with two uprights and no walls, a bright field belted in on all four sides by dark, a panel framed inside the picture, a rectangle of bars hung at the corner. None of them shuts anything in.

The cage is the limit of perception, and it is always thinner than the thing it is around. It is line where the bodies are matter, and it stops before it closes. In the last of them the frame is not painted at all: the canvas is turned over and its own stretcher bars divide the picture into the two rooms the figures are kept in.

The body

CELL OVER CELL, AND NO HUMAN LEFT

No body in these paintings is drawn as one thing. It accumulates: ovoids stacked into a leg, cells packed into a torso, coloured balls piled where a chest should be, a heap in which an arm belongs to nobody in particular. The contour that would say where a person ends is not drawn.

This is the break with the human, and it is put as a thin ladder rather than a fall. Each cell is a step, the body is what the steps add up to, and the count can go up or down. What is being painted is not a figure that has come apart but a figure that was assembled, and can be assembled differently the next time.

The face

THE ONE SQUARE METRE THAT IS FOUGHT OVER

Everything the paintings will not settle is settled, or refused, on the face. One head is worked until it has neither eyes nor mouth while the head opposite it is nothing but glare. One neck carries two faces at once, one a skull and one asleep. A band of red is laid across the eyes. In one painting the head is a lumpy tip with no face set on it at all.

The face is the battlefield of identity: the place where the painting decides whether there is a person here, and often declines to decide. The bodies are assembled out of parts and can be rebuilt; the face is where that becomes a question about somebody rather than about construction.

All works by Yiğit Özen, born 1994 in Istanbul and trained as an architect. They are given newest first, so a paragraph that says a thing happens for the first time means the first time reading backwards through the book.

Dimensions are width by height, in centimetres and then in inches.

Photography by the artist. Plates and details reproduce documentation of the paintings; colour and surface differ from the works themselves. The files are set at about 137 pixels to the inch of printed width, made for reading and for screens rather than for offset printing.

Detail photography exists for fourteen of the thirty-five. Where it does not, the work is shown through its plate alone; where a cut is taken from a plate — in the chapter on what comes back, and three times in the work sections — the caption says where it is.

Where a paragraph gives a proportion or a percentage, it was measured on the documentation file rather than on the painting, and it describes that file. No colour target was used in the photography, so the figures are a reading of the photograph and not a colorimetric claim about the paint.

Titles are set as the artist writes them, in his spelling and his punctuation. il sbagliato di rompipalle, sono squalo and caprocorn are his, not slips of the setting.

Sources for the two borrowed reference images and for the epigraph on 03 are given on the pages they appear on.

A caption gives where in the painting the cut is, and then what the hand did there, taken from that work's own note on colour, composition or hand. Every cut is printed once in the book; when a place returns in the chapter on what comes back, it returns as a different or a wider cut.

A picture that bleeds is cut by the sheet; every painting treated this way is also printed whole in its own opening and in the index.

Set in Inter and in Newsreader, both under the SIL Open Font License; the files are embedded. A short selection of the same works is published separately for sending; the thirty-five are also at yigitozen.xyz, where every photograph can be seen at full size.
